FIVE ARMS PARLEY TREATIES SIGNED TODAY

CARDINAL RATTI IS ELECTED POPE TODAY ON THE SEVENTH BALLOT

NEW POPE WILL ASSUME NAME OF POPE PIUS XI

NEW POPE WAS ONE OF THE NEWEST CARDINALS, BEING MADE CARDINAL IN 1921

RING OF ST. PETER AND WHITE CAP OF SUPREME PONTIFF PRESENTED

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Rome, Feb. 6—Cardinal Ratti was today elected pope on the seventh ballot of the sacred college.

He will assume the name of Pope Pius XI. The smoke signal from the Vatican this morning was white, and shortly afterwards it was announced that Cardinal Ratti, an Italian had been elected to succeed Pope Benedict XV.

When the ballots within the secret conclave of the Sistine chapel this morning showed the necessary majority of two-thirds had been received by Cardinal Ratti, the secretary of the conclave, the master of ceremony and the sacristan of the Vatican were admitted to the chapel.

The cardinal deacons accompanied by the heads of other orders of cardinals presented themselves to Ratti, and asked if he accepted the election.

Receiving an affirmative answer, the white smoke signal to tell the waiting throng outside the Vatican that a successor to Pope Benedict XV had been chosen was released, and the canopies of all the other cardinals about the Sistine chapel fell to the floor, only the canopy of Ratti remaining upright.

Ratti's election was not a surprise, although he was one of the newest cardinals, having been created in June 1921 by the late Pope Benedict.

The newly elected Pope was asked what name he would take as Pope, and he replied "Pius XI."

He gave his reasons for the selection, and the priest who was attached to Ratti was admitted to the conclave, and the priest then presented him with the robe of the newly elected Pope.

One of the three white robes which had ben prepared for the ceremony was upon Ratti, and the secretary of the conclave handed to him the white cap, which designates him as supreme pontiff.

Thus attired, the new Pope was taken to the papal throne which had been prepared overlooking the seats of the cardinals. The first homage which was shown to the new Pope by the cardinals was in order. Cardinal Gasparri, who as cardinal camerlengo had retained temporary chapel authority, was then required to approach the throne and give to Pope Pius XI the ring of St. Peter which will later be turned over to have Ratti's name inscribed on it.

The cardinals then returned to their cells to await formal announcement of the Pope's election.

The head of the cardinal deacons appeared before the eager throng outside the Vatican, which were crowding forward to receive the first public chapel blessing and announcement, the thousands swarming to hear of the Pope's election.

He gave Ratti's name as when the new Pope was cardinal.

Following this announcement, there was a further ceremony to be gone through in the Sistine chapel, and later according to custom in one of the chapels of St. Peter.

The coronation of Pope Pius will constitute the last and most magnificent ceremony of all caused by the death of the supreme pontiff and the election of his successor.

The precise date of the coronation as well as the place where it will be held will be designated by Pope Pius XI himself.

In conformity with the tradition of centuries, however, it is probable that the new Pope will select either Monday or a holiday. He will likewise, undoubtedly, choose either St. Peters or the Sistine chapel, where he was elected, for the ceremony.

Cardinal Ratti, by his election today, becomes the 261st Pope since the time of St. Peter.

As Pope Pius he is expected to conduct the policy of reconciliation with the Italian government for he was a member of the Gasparri party which stood for a reproachment between the Quirinal and the Vatican.

Ratti was Papal Nuncio to Poland, and recently was made bishop of Milan.

Cardinal Ratti was 55 year old. Although he is Italian, he is better known in Poland where he had been papal representative for several years. He was consecrated Bishop of Warsaw, and until recently had his headquarters there. The new Pope was born in Milan in 1867.

GUNMEN RAID STORE, ESCAPE WITH $1,600

Minneapolis, Feb. 6—Posing as prospective customers, two young gunmen held up the clothes shop of Rossman, Inc., 426 Hennepin avenue, late Saturday while a score of persons were in the store and escaped with $1,600 in cash after being chased for two blocks through crowds of Saturday night shoppers.

Eli Rossman, president of the firm, told the police he took up the chase after his brother, John Rossman, had been forced to release one of the bandits he seized as they were running from the building. His cries for help were unheeded, he said, although the street was crowded with traffic. The men finally escaped on a streetcar.

OFFER $75,000,000 FARM LOAN BONDS

SALE BEGAN TODAY—RECORD ISSUE OF KIND ANNOUNCED BY MELLON

Washington., Feb. 6—Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon announced Saturday that 12 federal land banks Monday will make a combined offering of $75,000,000, 5 per cent federal farm loan bonds at 102⅝ and accrued interest, at which price they will yield approximately 4.70 per cent to the callable date, and 5 per cent thereafter.

The bonds will be dated Nov. 1, 1921, due Nov. 1, 1941, and callable at the option of the issuing bank after Nov. 1, 1931. They will be issued in coupon form and may be exchanged for registered. Interest will be payable semi-annually, May and Nov. 1.

"These bonds," said the secretary, "will be for sale by the federal land banks, farm loan associations, the Federal Farm Loan board and bond distributors as heretofore.

"It is the largest offering of farm loan bonds ever made, but in view of he generally favorable trend of the investment market and the continued strong showing of the federal land banks, it is believed that it will be readily absorbed, and as the funds go direct to the farmers of the country it should do much to improve the agricultural situation."

CHICAGO STUDENTS ACT AS DETECTIVES

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 6.—"Snitchers" are used in Chicago schools to aid espionage.

This became known when Peter A. Mortenson, superintendent of the Board of Education, indicated that pupils may be depended upon to report upon the conduct of others and that the practice is not discouraged.

"Loyal students notice the shortcomings of their classmates and keep instructors well informed regarding any feature deemed objectionable in such conduct," he said.

Students of this type were responsible for the recent dismissal of two students from a high school. These students also report on the conduct of young student couples who go auto riding and visit caberets.

POLICE GRILLING MOVIE ACTORS FOR TAYLOR MURDER

TAYLOR LIVING UNDER ASSUMED NAME—HAD A WIFE AND CHILD

By FRANK BARTHOLOMEW
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Los Angeles, Feb. 6—"Comb dope dens of Hollywood".

This order was issued today by detective Captain David L. Adams, following a conference at police headquarters.

Although Adams would make no statement, it was understood that a new clue had been found, connecting the death of William D. Taylor, motion picture director, with the operations of a Hollywood dope ring.

Los Angeles, Feb. 6—In an overcoat and with cap pulled down over his forehead, George Milo, picture actor strode up and down the side walk in front of the home of William D. Taylor, murdered film director. He was acting against his will a role he had often played in the films, that of "heavy." Eyes unseen by him looked out from the shuttered windows of a bungalow across the court from the Taylor home. Mrs. Douglas MacLean, wife of the movie star was trying to identify Milo as the man she saw leaving the bungalow where Taylor was murdered.

Meanwhile, in a closed automobile, parked a short distance away, deputy sheriffs were firing questions at Henry R. Reineque, an actor and friend of Milo, questions concerning the whereabouts of the two last Wednesday night., Neither Milo or Reineque were formally arrested. Milo and Reineque were taken into custody late last night as they were alighting from Milo's machine in front of their apartment.

Taylor's Life Puzzles Police

The detectives were incredulous at first when they learned that Taylor had managed an antique shop in Fifth avenue, New York, some 14 years ago, under the name of Tanner, and that he had "mysteriously disappeared."

Why he had decided to drop out of the old life is still unknown to the investigators; but they mean to ferret out the friends and the foes of that old life.

One of the greatest rewards ever offered for the apprehension of a murderer in modern criminal history may be placed on the head of the man or woman who shot Taylor to death, it developed here last night.

Unverified reports were current throughout Hollywood that a reward mounting into the hundreds of thousands would be posted early this week if present leads and clues fail to result in an immediate arrest.

New York dispatches said today that Taylor had conducted an art store in the metropolis in 1908 when he was known at William Deane Tanner.

He was married in 1901 to Ethel May Harrison a member of the original Floradora company, according to word from the eastern city. One daughter, Ethel Daisy, was born to them. She is in Marmaroneck, N. Y., according to Public Administrator Frank Bryson, in charge of Taylor's effects. Bryson has exchanged telegrams with the daughter, he said.

WONDERFUL RESULTS ARE ACHIEVED FOR PERMANENT PEACE

DISTINGUISHED COMPANY HEADED BY PRESIDENT HARDING SEES CEREMONY

PRESIDENT ADDRESSED GATHERING—BEING A BENEDICTION ON NOBLE WORK

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Continental Hall, Washington, Feb. 6—The Washington conference on limitation of armament, and far eastern questions, which has written on the records of time a remarkable list of achievements to preserve the peace of the world, passed into history today.

President Harding, who opened the conference twelve weeks ago, today closed it by predicting the success achieved here will make possible other conferences in the future.

He eloquently praised the conference as having 'lighted the torches of understanding which ought to glow and encircle the globe."

Harding's address followed the formal signing of the five far reaching treaties by the conference, including the naval limitation pact.

The treaties now to go before the respective legislative bodies of the world for ratification. The conference adjourned sine die, shortly after 11 o'clock.

Five treaties—the memorable produce of the Washington conference were signed today with a sober simplicity, typically American.

In the marble D. A. R. hall, the varicolored banners of nine nations represented here, occurred the ceremony of three months of arduous labor—a labor marked with more fruitful results toward peace than centuries of dreaming after such achievements.

It was a stirring scene.

A distinguished company, headed by the president of the United States, saw the delegates file to the table within the center of the great hall, attach their signatures carefully, and file back to their places around the great horseshoe table which had witnessed so much making of history the past twelve weeks.

President Harding addressed the gathering. In his speech was a sort of God speed to the delegates, a sort of benediction on the noble work. The delegations, the audience of beautiful women, senators who soon will pass upon the treaties, diplomats of many nations, and plain everyday folk followed his words with rapt attention.

The treaty signed by the nine powers dealt with Chinese customs, documents, the Chinese 'policy" treaty giving China a new deal, and a new place in the sun.

The treaties signed by the five powers, America, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan were the naval limitations with a curb on naval building by scrapping many craft, and placing limits on future construction, and the joint poison gas and submarine limitations document.

The treaty signed by the four powers, America, Britain, France and Japan was a supplement to the one already signed, the Pacific treaty, difining clearly what Japan's insular possessions are.

For two days, Sidney Smith, the state department chief of protocols, had been affixing the red silk ribbons and seals so that all the delegates had to do was to sign the papers along the red seals.

Treaties drawn in parallel columns of English and French are left within the archives of the United States, and if ratified, as all delegates expect, will remain there.

Movie cameras clicked.

President Harding's presence at today's session made it perhaps more attractive for the curious. Applause greeted the president, Balfour, Hughes and other delegates and guests.

Future Conferences Forecast by President Harding

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Feb. 6—Future conferences of nations to carry forward the work begun by the conference on armament limitation were forecast today by President Harding in an address formally bringing the present parley to a close.

"Since this conference of nations has pointed with unanimity to the way of like conferences in the future under appropriate conditions and with aims both well conceived and definite may many illuminate the highways and byways of human activities."

This was generally accepted as Harding's invitation to the nations attending this conference to become partners in a general association of nations for preservation of the world's peace.

His address followed the signing of the treaties by all nine nations in the conference.

The work begun here will not end with the expiration of the naval holiday, Harding predicted. That holiday will be extended, he said. "And those of us who live in another decade are most likely to witness a growth of opinion, strengthened by new experiences, which will make nations more concerned with living to fulfillment of God's high intents, than with agencies of warfare and destruction.

GOV. OF MISSISSIPPI SUED FOR SEDUCTION

$100,000 DAMAGES IS DEMANDED—SAYS ENEMIES WOULD BLACKEN HIS CHARACTER

(By United Press.)

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 6.—A suit for $100,000 charging seduction was filed against Governor Lee M. Russell of Mississippi today by Miss Florence Birkhead, former employe.

The suit was filed in the United States district court.

"It is a damnable lie," said Governor Russell when he was told several days ago that the suit would soon be filed against him.

"No lawyer in the state would dare bring it into the court. It is an attempt by my enemies to blacken my character."

Today no statement was made by Russell.

In her statement, Miss Birkhead said she met Russell in January, 1918 when he was lieutenant governor of the state.

She said he persuaded her to come to his office and he would give her a position. Shortly afterward the girl asserts, Russell began to make love to her. "After he found that I really cared for him and trusted him, he undertook to, and succeeded in seducing me," she said, promising me that I would never regret having trusted him—and that as soon as he could secure a divorce he would marry me. He promised me I should go to his home and live." The girl declared she always, at Russell's suggestion, entered and left his office by the rear stairway to avoid detection.

(By United Press.)

Los Angeles, Feb. 6—Madelyne Obenchain today heard Deputy District Attorney Asa Keys demand of prospective jurors that she be hanged if they found her guilty of conspiracy with Arthur C. Burch in the murder of John Belton Kennedy.

Her battery of attorneys received an early blow in a battle of wits against the district attorneys forces. Keyes successfully contended against a demand that the court dismiss the present jurors who were held from the last, and draw one hundred names in the new.

The prosecution asked the first twelve talesmen called if any objected to the death penalty. Four men and one woman announced their views in opposition to capital punishment, and were instantly excused.

Madelyne Obenchain was beautifully gowned upon her appearance in court.

FLEET IN TRAINING REGARDLESS OF DOOM

(By United Press.)

Guantanamo, Cuba, Feb. 4.—Unheeding the scrap heap prepared for part of it by the arms conference, the Atlantic fleet lies here in the calm blue of the southern ocean, making fit for possible war.

Under command of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, the fleet is now anchored off this port for winter drill and for intensive training of officers and men—undoubtedly the last winter maneuvers this particular group will ever make together.

The battleships Wyoming (flagship of the battleship force), Delaware (doomed ship), Arkansas, and North Dakota, doomed ship, came here ahead of the fleet flagship Columbia, which called at Charleston and Key West for inspection. Along with the battleship force are auxiliaries and train, and 18 destroyers from Charleston, S. C.

"Pep" is the watchword. Jones believes in action for ships and men, and here in the isolation of Guantanamo, with nothing to distract attention, he is putting the vessels and their crews through torpedo practice, maneuvers, target practice, tactical lectures, besides undertaking a system of sport and physical culture intended to put punch into every last man of the great gray fleet.

For the marines accompanying there is special drill in landing parties, shore drills, rifle practice and so on.

FIRST U. S. FIRM TO TRADE WITH RUSSIA

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Moscow (By Mail).—The first American firm, and at the same time the first foreign firm, actually to begin business in Moscow opened its offices here recently.

The firm was the Allied Drug and Chemical Company of New York, which recently secured a concession from the Soviet government to operate the famous asbestos beds of the Ural mountains, covering an area of 50,000 square "desati" (about 150,000 square acres).

This concern also has the distinction of having actually inaugurated trade between the United States and Russia, despite the fact that no formal trade treaty had been signed and no diplomatic relations existed between the two countries. On Nov. 18, a ship belonging to the Allied Drug and Chemical Company cleared out of New York with a cargo of grain, bound for Reval. At Reval the grain was to loaded onto trains and shipped to Moscow, where a return cargo of furs and other raw products, already assembled, will be turned over to the company by the government as payment for the grain.

The ship will then return to America with the furs, thus being the first American merchantmen openly to ply between the United States and Russia since the Bolshevik Revolution.

The Allied Drug and Chemical Company has four large rooms on Kuznetski Most, Moscow's Wall Street.

CATCH FISH ON 1000-FOOT LINE

(By United Press.)

London, Feb. 4.—If you are ever in doubt as to where the next meal is coming from, take a boat trip over to Madeira and there, according to Dr. Michael Graham, by letting down some traps, with good smelly decayed meat, on a thousand-foot length of cable, you may get some robust lobsters.

Dr. Graham has been there and found some fine ones, and he described the process to the Royal College of Physicians here. He found that near stony ledges on the floor of the deep sea were to be found very healthy edible fish, the only trouble with them being that when brought to the surface from the great pressure, the gas in their bodies expanded so that they died.

He found a fish called the "Sherny," which, he says, is valuable for food. It may be captured at a depth of 2,500 feet. It goes into a helpless spasm when it reaches the surface. One of its peculiarities is that its heart will beat for two days after its death.

So, if when you get to Madeira, you find all your fish die on you or explode, or aren't worth eating, you'll at least have a good fish story.

RUN, BUT DON'T FIGHT STICK UP MEN, SAYS CHIEF

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 6.—"Run if you can, but don't fight robbers," is the advice of Michael Hughes, chief of detectives in Chicago.

Don't resist because life is more valuable than money, and most of the present day thugs will kill unhesitatingly, he advises. It's not a coward, but a prudent man who runs from robbers.

"To know how to avoid holdup men one must first know how they operate," Hughes told the United Press. "Ninety per cent of the robberies are by auto bandits, who swoop down on a lone pedestrian at a lonely spot. If the intended victim is alert, he will turn about and be ready to flee the instant one starts toward him or says "hands up." Robbers will not shoot at a running man.

"When in strange neighborhoods keep to car line streets as much as possible. Look around before starting along any other street. Be sure no one is following. Keep to the outside of the walk. If someone emerges from a hallway or gangway, that leaves at least the width of the walk as a running start. If suspicious characters approach, cross to the other side of the street. If they do likewise turn and run, not forgetting to yell for police."

The public can be of great assistance to the police in making robberies unprofitable, Hughes states. These are a few rules that may be followed:

1. Don't carry large sums of money or valuable jewelry at night.
2. Be always on the alert for "stick-up men"; by anticipating them you may circumvent them.
3. Don't resist, if caught unawares and the "drop" is on you.
4. Run if you have the opportunity on being accosted.

A man had eleven hundred dollars in the bank, the savings of years. He withdrew his money and took it home, imagining it would be safer there. A few nights later the eleven hundred was gone. Thieves have a dozen ways of finding out where money is hidden.

BROADWAY A MARK FOR YE OLDEN TRICKS

Devices Too Ancient to Amuse the Farm Folk Draw Great Crowds Here

PRACTICAL JOKES SELL FAST

Everything From Sneeze Powder to Sulphur Cigarette and Artificial Insect Tickles New Yorkers

(New York Times)

Broadway has recently become the Rialto of the world for the sale of water pistols, exploding cigars, wailing instruments which imitate dying pigs, magic mirrors, invisible inks, trick cards, sneezing powders and other mechanical forms of wit and humor which used to be sold chiefly to the inhabitants of isolated farms and of lonesome communities in the mountainous districts.

In the last few days patrolmen along Broadway and even traffic policemen have repeatedly complained to desk lieutenants that their time is consumed in rushingn up to large and excited crowds apparently collected at the scene of an accident or crime. Here they find a lad selling practical jokes in the form of matches that won't light, cigarettes impregnated with sulphur, copper twenty-dollar gold pieces that shoot up the sleeve, rubber dogs that go "woof-woof," fighting cocks on invisible strings, cats that run in circles shooting sparks out of their eyes, puppies that, impelled by unknown forces, turn back somersaults; roosters that crow in several distinct notes, the great Hindu flower pot trick, imitation gold teeth and miraculous invisible flutes.

Mobs have been called together by these marvels in greater numbers since Christmas than before Christmas. A large proportion of the city's unemployed has apparently been absorbed into the barking industry. Peddlers of smuggled fur neckpieces have been ruined by the competition. Sellers of receipts for making gin and brandies on the radiator have been driven from the pavements.

Salesmen Come from Farms

Interviews with most of the street salesmen during idle periods show that most of them come from abandoned farms. Their story usually is that they came to Manhattan because friends wrote them that there were fortunes to be made in selling to the primitive inhabitants of this island the baby tricks that used to entertain the farmers on winter evenings before they grew sick of them.

The farms have recently grown out of the almanac and 1,000-page catalogue stage of culture and it has been discovered with surprise that among some classes in the big cities civilization has not yet risen to that level. The world is younger, according to the vendors of dying pigs, in some parts of Manhattan than in any of the rural sections. This stigma, however, is one to be spread evenly over the surface of the earth, since every part of it furnishes its quota of the population from which the ex-plowboys and abandoned farm hands draw their victims.

The source of supply of these novelties which amuse those who are amused by them is, it was discovered, a Chicago mail-order house whose catalogue was a standard work in the rural library of yesterday. An army of agents have been sent into the field, however, since it was discovered that in New York there are about a million persons with that kind of a sense of humor which is excited by the spraining of an ankle on an icy pavement or a fall from the roof of a ten story building.

A catalogue of the leading firm in the field showed that only a small proportion of the humorous devices have been placed on the sidewalk market and that a great stock of simple-minded merriment remains in store for the underveloped.

One of the fun-makers so far almost unknown in New York is entitled "The Surprise Revolver." You put it to your forehead and create the illusion of impending suicide. The young woman, as two illustrations in the catalogue shows, bursts into tears or faints. However, when you pull the trigger, instead of a shot a bell rings. Laughter replaces horror. This novelty is said to have caused the most unbounded delight.

Makes the Eyes Roll

"The Wicked Rolling Eyes" is the title of another device which fits the eyes like goggles. The advertisement explains that "by a very simple but clever arrangement the eyes can be made to quiver and roll with the most astonishing effect."

Another practically untapped source of harmless pleasure is that the "soot card," which has the ordinary appearance of a calling card on one side, but is coated with lampblack on the other. The woodcut shows the laughable consternation of a white-gloved young woman who has just been made the victim of this happy invention.

The Japanese surprise is a box resembling a camera. When the subject for the photograph is in position "you just pull the shutter and a huge rattlesnake, several feet in length, rushes straight at him, giving him the greatest shock of his life."

"Place on the hand a very small amount of this powder," says the catalogue, speaking of the sneezing powder which is now being popularized in New York, "and blow it into the air, and every one in the room or car will begin to sneeze, without knowing the reason why. It is most amusing to hear their remarks, as they never suspect the real source."

The "Alarming Squeaker or Pocket Cat Cry" is to be used in the following manner:

"Slip under cushion or place on a chair, and when sat upon it makes a loud squaking noise (like a cat meowing, to the dismay of the person sitting down."

The "surprise" soap turns the faces and hands a green, which can only be removed with great difficulty and after the object of the jest has been exhaustively ridiculed. The "torpedo whistle" is one on which you induce your friend to blow. He covers himself with "soot, lampblack or flour, or whatever you happened to load it with."

A gruesome drawing is that of the "marvelous trick knife", which is described as follows:

"For cutting off your finger or nose You can show the knife and instantly draw it across your fingers or nose, apparently cutting deep into the flesh. Red blood appears on blade of knife, givinga startling effect to spectators, when, presto, change—the knife is removed and your fingers or nose is found in good condition."

Artificial Insects

The "artificial bed bugs" are represented to be perfect imitations, and great pleasure is afforded, it is stated, by "placing them on the sheet or under the pillow, and see the woman folks gasp with horror at the discovery. We put them up six bugs in an envelope."

The "Palpitator" is placed under the left side of the vest. "Oh, my heart!' is exclaimed. The jester "implores some one to feel how it is throbbing. He obtains profound sympathy and can have plenty of fun before he discloses the nature of the hoax."

The "comic celluloid buttons" are illustrated puns, such as a portrait of a head of lettuce with the inscription, "Lettuce be married"; a squirrel, with the inscription, "Looking for a nut"; a goat with "You get my ——" prefixed; a pear around which is lettered "You and I make a good——."

Then there is the black wax which you use to give your mouth a gap-toothed appearance; the flesh-colored putty by which you extend indefitely your nose; the crimson stain by which you imitate a fresh wound and the livid pigment with which scars may be fabricated; wigs, whiskers and other disguises for home entertainment, private theatricals or detective work.

A few of the other novelties as yet little known in the metropolitan market are the "elec-trick surprise torch" from which, instead of a beam of light, a hissing snake darts forth; the "shimmie dancer," a figure printed on rubber made to dance by "a little manipulation with the forefinger; the lemon which vanishes from the finger-tips; explosive matches; the thumb-brander which leaves an indelible mark on the hand of your friend as you shake hands with him; the "mystic skeleton" which advances and gyrates without apparent cause; the "dying duck," the "trumpet kazoo," the 25 cent gold cigarette case, the "pocketdetective," or "Seebackograph," loaded cigarettes and a 10 cent X-ray machine.

Inexpensive volumes are also advertised which teach you to pitch the way Mathewson formerly did, to fight as Dempsey does, to tell fortunes, to predict the weather, to hypnotize and to write letters.

Woman Attorney To Argue Big Case

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 6.—Arguments made by a woman will be heard shortly by the Supreme Court of the United States in a patent law case which is of tremendous importance to every manufacturer in the country. The point decision on which will establish a precedent, is this: Can the owner of a patent sell the rights in that patent simply for the sake of allowing a third party to start litigation?

Miss Florence King of Chicago is the woman who will argue the case before the highest court of the land. She will also give you a good argument any time you ask for it on behalf of more Federal judges, "whose courts are clogged because of the attempted enforcement of the prohibition law while business men must let their important cases wait."

Miss King has two unique honors. She is the only woman who ever won a case before the Supreme Court of the United States and she is the only woman member of the American Association of Engineers, having just been elected a vice president of the Chicago chapter. This membership is extended only to those who have completed at least one course in engineering and have been engaged in the profession for seven years.

U. S. LEADS WORLD IN DEVELOPMENT OF WATER POWER

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 6.—The United States is the first country in the world in the development of waterpower, topping the list by a wide margin.

Forty per cent of the working water power of the world is in the rivers and streams of this country, where a total capacity of 9,243,000 horspower has been installed, the lastest figures of the United States Geological Survey show.

Europe has one-third of the developed water power of the world. France, Italy, Germany, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland have each more than 1,000,000 horsepower working. Japan leads Asia, with 1,000,000 horsepower. India is a poor second having only 150,000.

New York leads the states in this country in water power development, with 1,300,000 horsepower, and California, with 1,111,000, is second.

The largest percentage of power has been developed in the New England states, where the capacity of the water wheels is 1,381,000 horsepower. At Niagara Falls is the largest single waterpower plant in the world, with 870,000 horsepower capacity, but the major part of this development is on the Canadian side.

The total potential waterpower development of the world is estimated at 439,000,000 horsepower at low water. Africa leads the list in potential waterpower, w ith190,000,000 horsepower; Asia has 71,000,000; North America, 62,000,000, of which 28,000,000 is in the United States; South America, 54,000,000; and Europe, 45,000,000.

JAPAN BUILDS SPECIAL TRAIN FOR PRINCE OF WALES

By CLARENCE DUBOSE

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Tokyo (By Mail).—A special railroad train, which cost about 400,000 yen, or $200,000 has just been completed for the use of the Prince of Wales in Japan.

The heir to the British throne is expected to land at Yokohama April 15, to return the visit made to England by Crown Prince Hirohito.

Hirohito, new Regent and acting emperor, will meet the Prince of Wales personally. Hirohito's personal admiration of the Prince of Wales has been made very clear in various ways, and in addition to the formal and ceremonious association of the visit, there will be as much informal "palling" together of the two princes as circumstances will permit.

Hundreds of thousands of British flags have been distributed throughout Japan, in preparation of the visit of the Prince of Wales. In every school the children have been taught to sing "God Save the King." They will line the railroad tracks and streets to hail the distinguished guest everywhere he goes.

An elaborate variety of entertainments and court functions have been arranged under the direction of the Imperial Household department. Among other things a picked company of the most famous actors in the Empire—a sort of all-star cast de-luxe—will present for the Prince of Wales a special performance of "The Forty-seven Ronin." This is the most popular classic of the Japanese stage—the exciting story of the adventures of forty-seven feudal fighters. It ends rather gloomily. The forty-seven comit hara-kiri, or suicide, but possibly that detail will be omitted.

The Prince of Wales will live, while here, at the Akasaka Palace, the Japanese Crown Prince's special palace, and one of the finest in Japan.

SOLVING THE BONUS PROBLEM

The revenue law of 1921 cut about $800,000,000 per year from the total receipts from internal taxation. But the country is already confronted with the problem, not of reducing taxes, but of how to increase them. The proposed bonus tax law of 1922 will put back more than half the amount of the tax reduction of 1922 when the obligations of the bonus law are to be met.

It was a very pleasant thing for Congress last fall to notify tax-payers that their assessments for this year would be substantially lightened, but it is going to prove quite another matter to serve notice upon them now that new levies are to be made. Luxury taxes, stamp taxes on checks, gasoline taxes, manufacturers' sales taxes, tobacco taxes, and other means for increasing the taxes more than $400,000,000 a year are being considered. Each of these proposals has its adherents, and each also has its apponents.

We firmly believe that a majority of the members of Congress honestly want to find a way to give soldiers a cash bonus of several hundred dollars each. The desire of Congress to deal generously with the soldiers is demonstrated by the fact that over $2,000,000,000 has already been appropriated for soldier relief, including $250,000,000 for a previous bonus, and that expenditures under policies already adopted will reach about $450,000,000 a year. But every Congressman is also undoubtedly very loath to add to the economic problems of his constituents, after he has made them all glad through the tax relief that the Republican Congress has already granted. For this reason the bonus problem is an extremely difficult one to solve.

THE DEBT COMMISSION

It is reported that Great Britain has made it known that it is ready to make a substantial payment this year on account of arrears of interest on its debt to the United States. This is, of course, encouraging, but what this country particularly desires is to get the obligations of all the debtor nations refunded into such shape that we may know when interest payments may be expected each year, their amount, and the amount and date of regular principal payments.

The foreign debt refunding bill just passed by Congress will become a law when signed by the President, and a commission will be appointed to arrange the rate of interest, dates for interest payments, and regular reductions of the principal. When the debt refunding commission has accomplished that arrangement our relations with the rest of the world will be much clarified.

What those arrangements may be, when they will be reached, and the amounts the Treasury will receive hereunder are problematical and probably will not be known for some time. No reliance whatever can be placed on revenues from that source.

RAILROAD FREIGHT RATES

The people no doubt agree with the shippers that freight rates must be adjusted downward. The railroads, however, insist that this cannot be done unless there is a corresponding reduction in wages, and the statistics of railroad operations during the past year appear to bear out that contention.

It is announced that the Interstate Commerce Commission proposes to go thoroughly into the matter of rates, and expects to be ready to announce the result of its investigation about the 1st of March. If the Railroad Labor Board is as prompt in concluding its own hearings, the near future should see a readjustment of rates and costs of operation that will bring relief to the shippers and the public generally.

SIFTING COAL PRICES

It is thought that the upheaval in the coal situation scheduled for April 1 is likely to bring about a reduction in price to the consumer, although it cannot be predicted now what element entering into the retail price of coal will be cut. The one outstanding fact is that the price of anthracite is still about twice that of pre-war years, while the price of about every other commodity has come down materially since the war. The miners claim that the middlemen are getting unreasonable profits, while others contend that inordinately high wages are paid to the miners. There promises to be a thorough sifting of the facts when the clash of interest comes on April 1st, and the public will be able to put the blame where it belongs. With the responsibility fixed, there should be little trouble in forcing a price cut.

There is a decrease of about 18,000,000 in the population of Soviet Russia as compared with pre-war estimates, the Bolshevik press reports, according to a statement issued by the Commerce Department.

Up to the end of January the War Finance Corporation paid to the farmers of the Northwest $18,889,340 in loans. Applications received for loans up to the end of January amounted to a total of $55,356,719.

The public debt decreased by approximately $50,000,000 in January, the Treasury announces. The figures show that the total debt on Jan. 31 was $23,288,544,236 as compared with $23,438,984,351 on Dec. 31.

The State Auditor's office on Friday last sent out $9,579 in payments of wolf bounties, for 1,214 wolves and 158 cubs killed since Dec. 22, 1921.

AMUSEMENTS

Transformed Town Looks Like Prairie

Sun land that romantic little settlement nestling among the aged oak trees near Los Angeles, did not know itself recently, for it had been transformed into a prairie town of the early days.

If you asked one of the bearded, red-shirted men, or a calico-clad woman on the main street what place it was, the answer would be: "Dodge City, Kansas."

But it was Dodge City "of a vintage,' as they used to say in the pre-Volstead days.

The Prairie Production picture, "The Hellhound of the West," starring Dick Hatton, "The young Bill Farnum," found Sunland the ideal place and, with the consent of the local people erected "sets" and "shot" the surrounding country.

The Hellhound of the West will be seen at the New Park tonight and tomorrow.

Alice Calhoun Regarded as Perfect Type

Great care was taken in selecting the cast for "The Little Minister," which will be shown at the New Park on Wednesday and Thursday. Vitagraph selected Alice Calhoun because by nature of her physical beauty and mental makeup she is the ideal Lady Babbie. She possesses just the grace of witchery which has made the character of Babbie beloved by the millions who have read James M. Barrie's famous novel.

WHAT THE REVIEWERS SAID

New York Times—When "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" came, Mr. Ingram was revealed as one of the master workmen of the screen. The production was a fresh promise as well as a fulfillment—and now comes "The Conuering Power" to realize much that it foreshadowed . . . There is no space to comment on the plentiful excellencies of the film. It is really one of the best pictures that has come to Broadway.

Hariette Underhill, New York Tribune—We sat spellbound while the story was unfolded on the screen, charmed by the youthful appeal, vivacity and cleverness of Rudolph Valentino, by the restful and perfect continuity of the story, by the gorgeous photography, by the most excellent and beautifully brief titles, and by the splendid direction of this man, Rex Ingram. Particularly now, when so much is being said and so much is being felt about the German films, is such a picture welcome? Germany has turned out nothing finer. Need we say more?

Alison Smith, Globe—It is a little film masterpiece, composed, directed and lighted with sympathy and charm.

P. F. Feniers, New York Evening Post—It has an ease of continuity that is soothing in effect; the tonal shadings of its photography seem equivalent to the elusive quality of sesuous music; and Mr. Ingram's groups fall, dissolve and fall again into pictures so well composed that one regrets the necessity for continuous movement. These qualities make "The Conquering Power" a film that will bear seeing not only once, but several times, and we make bold to recommend it to those, if any, who are still skeptical of the cinema as an agent of beauty.

Evening Mail—In many respects "The Conquering Power" was a test of Ingram's real ability as a director. When "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," his first great effort, scored its sensational success, the wonder was expressed if he could ever equal that work. His answer is found in "The Conquering Power," for in the latter film he has actually surpassed "The Four Horsemen." Artistically, the film is magnificent, a masterpiece, a superb background for a powerful story, impressively told. It is not too much to say that "The Conquering Power" is a distinct contribution to the evolution of motion picture production.

SHALL CHILDREN BE KEPT FROM STAGE?

(By United Press.)

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 6.—The exploitation of thousands of children in motion pictures and upon the stage has raised a problem in Pennsylvania that must be decided by the State Industrial Board.

Can the Child Labor Act prevent a child from acting? If it is to be decided at all it must be decided by a ruling of the Industrial Board.

Recently there has sprung up through the liberal element that would like to see Sunday movies, Sunday sports, and other things now prohibited by the act of assembly in Pennsylvania, what amounts to virtually a demand that the Commissioner of Labor and Industry exercise his right through the Industrial Board to interpret the present Child Labor Act, which is not clear on this point.

A committee has been formed to make recommendations to the Board on the question of granting permits to certain exceptional children who satisfy the requirements as to education and environment. Representatives of both sides of the issue are on the committee. Women are divided on the question. Theatrical managers want a ruling, but the Society to Protect Children from Cruelty doesn't want to and is ready to fight the ruling in the courts if it is made.

The Board has obtained much data on the subject and has received from states having departments of labor expressions of the attitude in those states toward children in the theatres. It was found that five states have no law on that subject. Prohibitive features are found in twenty-two states. Exemptions, under certain conditions, are granted in ten states.

In Utah there is a law, but it was found that so much difficulty was encountered in its enforcement that the law is disregarded. In Minnesota and Kansas enforcement is being obtained under much difficulty.

Prohibition A Boon To Glass Makers

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Prohibition has proven a boon to the manufacturers of whiskey, wine and beer glasses.

More of these have been made and sold since the United States became a Sahara than in the heyday of John Barleycorn.

This was brought out at the exhibit of pottery and glass which opened here today at the Hotel Morrison, under the auspices of the Glass Pottery Lamps and House Furnishings Association. The exhibit will continue until Feb. 18.

"More whiskey, wine and beer glasses, and a greater variety have been made and sold since prohibition than when there were wide-open saloons," said J. W. Power, secretary of the association.

"Home brewing is one of the causes. People who never had whiskey glasses before in their homes now possess them.

"More ingenuity has been used by the manufacturer in making of the glasses. Many are made with a solid bottom and so fashioned that, while they have all the appearance of the old time whiskey glass, they only hold about a thimble full."

CRIMINAL IS SMARTER THAN THE POLICEMAN

(By United Press.)

London, Feb. 6.—Crime is flourishing in England today because the criminal is superior to the man sent to catch him, according to Dr. Bernard Hollander, expert criminologist.

"The criminal, whether burglar or murderer, is more skilled than he used to be," Hollander declared. "He is usually a man of education, if not scientific attainment.

"The policeman, however, who has risen to the post of detective may have been excellent in the time of the Dickens type of criminal, but he is no match for the clever killer of today."

Only educated and scientifically trained men, he said, with a knowledge of human nature and social life, could be expected to succeed as detectors of real crime.

The Cut-Price Man

There are some people in this world who are self-cnfessed bargain hunters. They see virtue in a commodity only when the price can be arranged.

They will favor you with a sly, insinuating wink as they say, "No, siree! I never pay the list price for anything. I make my own terms—or I don't buy."

That's what they say, isn't it

Investigate such a man on a personal basis and you will find that he wears an athletic "type" union suit—with a sweat-shop label in the neckband. The webbing has broken away at the waist.

He smokes "ten cent straights—special today for six cents apiece." The aroma is suggestive of a motorman's glove.

He lives in a house covered with "just as good" roofing. Sun and rain find access through a hundred cracks.

He plays golf with a Glory dimple "second." His drives average all of ninety yards.

He carries a "take me home for 74 cents" dollar watch. He arrives home 25 minutes behind the dinner hour.

And so on to the end of the chapter.

He has made his "own terms." He lives by his "own terms" and probably dies by them.

If you give him the opportunity, he will make his "own terms" with you.

Then—after you have cut the list price—you will have to pay the penalty.—Advertising and Selling.

DODGE CAR TOOK HEADER DOWN FILL

Miles Guinn Hero of an Exploit Which Would Have Furnished a Real Thrill for Movies

NOBODY HURT IN THE ACCIDENT

Car Undamaged Kept Right Side Up and Landed in a Snowbank, Pulled Out by Team

Miles Guinn of Northeast Brainerd was the hero in an exploit Sunday afternoon which if photographed on the spot would have provided a real thrill for any movie fan. Guinn, it is reported, was driving his car eastward on the fill and turned out for some driver.

Guinn,'s car, a Dodge, started slipping on the ice and snow which has banked up against the curb and went over the top. Guinn hung to his steering wheel and a boy friend clung to Miles and neither had time to say "Whoa" before the car had completed its slide down a long 45 per cent grade, bumped some light trees and landed upright in a snow bank.

The snow bank retarded the wheels, otherwise the Dodge would have sailed out again under its own power. A team was requisitioned and soon got the car back to street level.

After it was all over, there were several photographers, amateurs and others on the scene.

ALBERT ATHERTON HAS PASSED AWAY

Well Known Lumberman, Aged 91, Taken Ill With Pneumonia, Died at His Home Sunday Morning

BORN IN NEW BRUNSWICK, CAN.

Funeral will be Held on Tuesday Afternoon from the Residence, 315 Main Street

Albert Atherton, well known, pioneer lumberman of this vicinity, died at his home, 315 Main street at 12:50 a. m. Sunday. Last Monday he was taken ill with pneumonia and on Tuesday was confined to his bed. With old age against him in the battle against the ravages of this disease, he was unable to rally.

Mr. Atherton was born in Queensboro, N. B., September 24th, 1830 and spent his younger days in the general store business in South Hampton of that province. H was married to Ann Rebecca Ingraham at South Hampton, N. B., in 1858. Their wedlock was blessed with five children, two of whom are now living, Miss Maggie Atherton of Brainerd and J. C. Atherton of San Jose, Calif. Two grand children, Mrs. D. H. Harger and John Atherton, both of San Jose, Calif., are also left to mourn their loss. Mrs. Atherton preceeded her husband to her reward March 15th, 1921.

The deceased left South Hampton on Sept. 24th, 1882, his 52nd birthday, and ettled in Brainerd the same year. For a while he engaged in the lumbering business and later did considerable building and contracting work but of recent years was a competent lumber cruiser. The last few years his eyesight has failed him and he was forced to retire from active work although his health was more than exceptionally good for his age right up to the time that he contracted his fatal illness. Only two years ago Mr. Atherton topped off his own chimney on his residence, carrying the brick and mortar to the roof all alone and he has always sawed up his own stove wood, a chore which he attended to the day he took sick.

The funeral will be held from the residence at 2 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 7th, Rev. Fred Errington of the First Congregational church officiating.

Mr. Atherton will be missed by his many friends, not only in Brainerd and Crow Wing county but all northern Minnesota. He was well liked by all.

SAM HAWKINS IS NAMED PRESIDENT

West Brainerd Man Again Heads the Crow Wing County Poultry Association

O. J. BOUMA, IS SECY.-TREAS.

Louis Roth is Vice President—Five Named on the New Executive Board of Association

The annual meeting of the Crow Wing County Poultry Association was held Sunday in the office of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The past officers Samuel Hawkins, president; Louis Roth, vice president and O. J. Bouma, secretary-treasurer, were re-elected. The executive committee was increased to eight, including the regular officers. R. S. Wilcox, V. L. Hitch, R. E. Bemmels, E. G. Roth and W. A. M. Johnstone were elected to membership on the executive board.

The organization went on record favoring a proposition to introduce "Baby Chicks" into this community and a committee was appointed to see that the community be supplied with day old chicks and also to advertise this part of the poultry business. The purpose of this movement is to ultimately have a community or colony of poultry producers having one standard variety of chickens and producing eggs of standard size and color, also to form a shipping association following the plan similar to the plan now in use in the great poultry centers such as Petauma, California and Barnum, Minnesota.

The future meetings of the Crow Wing Country Poultry Association will be held in the farmers' room of the court house.

PUBLIC MASS MEETING

The Water and Light Board requests that all citizens interested in a program of improvements in the city water system for 1922 meet at Gardner's Hall Friday evening, February 10th, at 8 p. m. sharp. The Board will present an outline of improvements, and it is desirable that the public acquaint itself therewith.

The discussion of the evening will be confined to these following few important questions. Do you want West Brainerd or the Mill District or both to receive water service this year, and if so, how would you pay for it? Do you want to replace now the existing defective mains or continue repairing leaks; and if you prefer to relay the mains, how would you provide money for the cost of such work? Do you believe in having the city pay to the Board by taxation the full cost of adequate hydrant-service for fire protection, or do you favor having the Board pay most of the cost, as it now does, and meet this expense by maintaining high meter-rates?

WATER & LIGHT BOARD
208-210-212

Shall We Extend Water Mains to WestBrainerd and the Mill District

In this issue we publish an announcement of the Water & Light Board. The Board calls a public meeting to acquaint you with some important proposals that might be undertaken in 1922. The evening will be devoted to discussing three questions and those present will be asked to express their opinions on the problems.

The people should turn out in full force and take part in the discussion and make their opinions known. The Board will be prepared to offer suggestions and data to help those in the audience who wish to voice their opinions.

If the people indicate that it is too much of a load for them to add the cost of laying mains to West Brainerd and the Mill District, it is fitting that these sections be so informed ... those who are now consumers of water and would have to pay the bill. On the other hand, if Brainerd is to grow, is it not time that the city push its improvements into these districts and help them grow more rapidly. Whether to pay for these extensions by voting bonds or by raising rates is the most important thing that must be determined. It will cost $25,000 to $30,000 to build both the extensions.

Missionary Society

The Missionary society of the First Congregational church will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage instead of Tuesday as announced.

Cornish Tin Miners.

The men who work in the Cornish tin mines are a class by themselves, and all their differences are adjusted by the stannary courts, as they are called from the Latin word stannum. These curious courts have existed in their present form since the middle of the Thirteenth century, and, in a simpler form, much earlier; and the miners claim to be free from all other jurisdiction, "except in matters affecting the land, life or limb."

BRAINERD HIGH'S WINNING GAIT

First Team Rolls Up a Victory of 18 to 16 in Basketball Game With Crosby-Ironton

WALLY ENGBRETSON IS HERO

And the Second Team Jumped Into Fame Too, Defeating Staples Second 17 to 7

(Contributed by W. G.)

Last Saturday the Brainerd high cage quint galloped out to mix with the range five at the high school auditorium. The game started with great smoothness and alacrity which gradually waxed into a high-pitched battle. The local crowd took the lead at the beginning of the fray and held it by a slight margin throughout the period which ended with a 12 to 5 tally.

The second half was another series of perpetual motions, Crosby opening up to do their utmost and although the sphere hovered around Brainerd's basket for the last few minutes, the visitors were unable to overcome the slim advantage that spelled their defeat. The game was finished with a score of 18-16 in Brainerd's favor.

Wally Engbretsen was up to his old tricks scoring 12 out of the 18 points made. While Capt. Hess was the essence of cooperation, taking the ball through time and time again. Molstad played exceptionally well in spite of Lady luck. Sargeant and Heikkinen were nigh impregnable. Carlson filled either guard position with equal ease.

The overture game was played between the second teams of Staples and Brainerd, the locals coming in about 10 beats ahead in a score in 17-7. The game was an especially scrappy one and put the side-liners in the right mood for the big event.

The lineup for the first team game was as follows:

BRAINERD		CROSBY
Engbretsen	rf	Young (c)
Hess (c)	lf	Stark
Molstad	c	Nyman
Sargeant	rg	Burud
Heikkinen	lg	Martinello

MANY IMPROVEMENT ARE MADE

Cupboard and Table Built and Donated to School—Program Committee is Named

(Contributed)

Fortunately West Brainerd has the hope of an addition to their school in the near future, as it is inadequate to acocmodate friends and members of the Parent-Teachers association.

The following incident will illustrate the true community spirit that prevails in that part of the city. At the last meeting Mr. Antonnson suggested the cupboardbe built in the basement for the use of the ladies at the meetings.

John Spencer offered to donate the necessary lumber. But following week Mr. Severtson donated a cupboard and Mr. Chapman and Mr. Antonsen assisted him in conveniently installing it. As Mr. Spencer still insisted on donating the lumber, Mr. Bushway built a splendid table for the school.

The regular meeting was held on Friday evening, Feb. 3. Mrs. Smiley expressed her appreciation of the visiting nurse's work. This last week she has supplied the school with an emergency kit and provided shoes and rubbers for five needy children.

The president appointed Messrs. Elmer Meyer and Victor Bourgeois on the program committee for the next meeting.

In one corner of the school room the Junior club has built an attractive booth where they sold candy during the evening.

This program was given:

CHURCH MEN WILL SERVE OYSTER STEW

Bethlehem Evangelical Church, Corner of Main and Bluff, to be Scene of Supper

FRIDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 17

The Men Will Also Wash the Dishes After It's All Over and That's Some Undertaking

The men of the Bethlehem Evangelical church, corner Main and Bluff, will serve an oyster supper on Friday evening, Feb. 17. They will do all the work on this evening, with the exception of preparing the stew. This important part they will leave in the hands of two expert lady cooks.

But aside from that everything will be strictly man service, even to washing the dishes after the supper. They will be dressed in a white uniform and will present a natty appearance. Their service will be A. No. 1. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Fine Points in English

The man had just informed the Pullman Agent that he wanted a berth.

"Upper or lower?" asked the agent.

"What's the difference?" asked the man.

"A difference of 50c in this case. The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. In other words, the higher, the lower. Most people don't like the upper, although it is lower, on account of being higher. When you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you pay higher. The upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. If you are willing to go higher, it will be lower—" But the poor man had fainted.

While polling one of the wards lately, the canvasser, after inquiring for the man of the house and learning that he was not at home, asked the following question of the woman who had answered his knock:

"What party does your husband belong to?"

This was the reply: "I'm the party my husband belongs to. What about it?"

Townley Again on Trial

Fargo, Feb. 6—The second legal battle of A. C. Townley, president of the National Nonpartisan league, to keep out of jail begins here today—just one week after he left the county jail in Jackson where he served ninety days for alleged sedition. Before completing that sentence he was served with a warrant charged with complicity in a three thousand dollar bank embezzlement, but was permitted to go to St. Paul for a week's visit with his sick wife before coming here for arraignment.

The week of grace granted by Sheriff Kramer expires today and Townley is expected here to be arraignd before Judge Cole.

The warrant was issued by Assistant States Attorney Wattam of Cass county on request of Attorney General Johnson and charges that Townley "egged" J. J. Hastings, also wanted for embezzlement, on to giving the Scandinavian-American bank at Fargo, now defunct, a note for $3,000 on the Sisal trust. It is said the note was given before the Sisal trust, a Florida corporation, came into existence. Hastings was an officer of the bank at the time.

This suit as well as a civil suit, the latter Watters vs. Townley, scheduled for hearing at the present term of the Cass county court, is expected to settle the ownership of the Sisal trust. Townley's enemies charge he was the majority stockholder in it at the time he was adjudged bankrupt. Townley says he has no connection with the concern. Watters is suing him for salary as manager of the trust.

Arrest of Townley and Hastings is said to have grown out of evidence presented at the trial of Frank Heaton, former teller of the Scandinavian-American bank, now serving 30 days in Cass county jail, for petty larceny of which he was convicted on a $78,000 embezzlement charge, and an audit of the Bank of North Dakota by Bishop, Brissman & Co.

Pearl Necklace Is Recovered From Fargo Widow For Smuggling

(By United Press.)

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 6.—Secret service agents recovered a $5,000 pearl necklace from Mrs. Nora Kachelmacher, pretty Fargo widow, it was learned today.

They alleged she smuggled the pearls into this country from Christiania, Norway. If action is begun, it will have to be in the state of New Jersey, the place of entry by Mrs. Kachelmacher.

Mrs. Kachelmacher is the widow of the late Doctor Kachelmacher, prominent Fargo physician.

Greek Toys, 2,000 Years Old, Just Like Today's Playthings

(By United Press.)

London, Feb. 6.—Now that Christmas is safely out of the way, and the first of the procession of monthly reckonings has come, perhaps the gentle reader would like some suggestions for his next Christmas shopping.

Anyhow, the British Museum has some samples of what the long-suffering Pa of 2000 years ago devised to amuse the kiddies. You turn to the left when you get past old Cheops and his mumy harem and there you have the cradles of the cradle of the race. There you may see what made Alexander Great, what inspired Xerxes to join the army, what instilled in Helen of troy her womanly virtues.

As the modern children of firemen play with small fire engines, and those of war-profiteers play with toy battleships, so, one might suppose, the children of ancient Greece played with bootblack stands. But not at all. The only trace, in fact, of what the uninitiated might expect from the account of Greek Culture, is a pair of dolls' shoes that could be put on or taken off. There are, instead, nicely dressed little Greek lady dolls, looking like Antigone fetching the vase of nectar. Tiny dolls in little carts drawn by horses, bronze chairs for dolls houses, animals, tops and marbles, in fact, quite a number of the toys that are snatched out of the Christmas stocking or swiped from the neighbor kids today, are to be seen in the case there, labeled two thousand years ago.

Editor Tries to Tell Truth

A Kansas editor announced that he would try for one week to tell the truth, and he is still in the hospital. He didn't get by the first day. The following item appeared in Monday's issues and now the boys are getting out the paper. This is what he said:

Married, Miss Sylvia Rhode to Mr. Hames Canaham, last Sunday evening at the Baptist church. The bride was an ordinary town girl who didn't know any more than a rabbit about cooking and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not beautiful by any means and has a gait like a duck. The groom is an up-to-date, has been a loafer, living off the old folks all his life, and don't amount to shucks and they're going to have a hard life while they live together.

CAN'T LAUGH AT SMALL BOY

Investigation Shows That Modern Woman's Pockets Contain Wonderful Variety of Objects.

The number of things which a small boy carried in his pocket was once a subject exciting comment. Today a girl of any age usually exceeds the quota of the most acquisitive of small boys.

The articles which fill the feminine handbag or envelope purse are of course vastly different and yet there are certain similarities.

The small boy carried usually a supply of fishing tackle, some string and a hook or two and often a dead angleworm.

The woman's fishing tackle is different—her bag holds powder, rouge, mirror, a comb and sometimes an additional pair of eyelashes to stick on when she wants to dazzle.

The small boy carried nails.

The woman carries a nail file.

The small boy carried two coins with holes in them and a Canadian penny.

The woman carries carfare usually and her husband's telephone number and office address.

The small boy carried a bunch of jokes cut from the papers.

The woman carries at least a couple of love letters.

The small boy carried a secret missive in which the announcement of a neighborhood cock fight was mysteriously indicated in rubbed red chalk.

The woman carries a bargain sale announcement.

In addition the woman carries three postage stamps shriveled up and damaged, one broken glove clasp, one milk bottle return check, four memorandum slips, four house keys, two samples and several varieties of pins.

The small boy carried a pack of cigarettes.

So does the woman.—Exchange.

BRINGING SANTA UP TO DATE

Modern Child Considered Him Much Too Old to Be Riding Around in an Airplane.

Story hour in the Prospect branch library is an important occasion for the many youngsters of the neighborhood. As it was Christmas week, the usual yuletide stories were being told to the eager group. Santa, as is the custom, was described to whirl through the sky and even past the handle of the dipper with his sleigh and reindeers.

One little precocious miss doubted his means of travel very much and didn't hesitate to criticize. "Santa uses an airplane now," was the more modern version. St. Nick seems to be taken for granted, but a querulous youngster asked: "How old is Santa? He brought my mother toys and things when she was a little girl, so he must be an old man now, and too old to ride in an airplane."—Indianapolis News.

Ask Dad—He Knows!

It was little Ethel's first visit to the post exchange. Her father a marine corps captain, had dropped in to buy some necessary articles and had taken along his five-year-old daughter for company.

The businesslike private drew a pencil from behind his ear, jotted down the sum total of the captain's purchases, wrapped up the articles in a parcel, gave the captain his change, and proceeded to straighten up his temporarily disordered stock.

Little Ethel watched the brisk movements of the post exchange clerk with the keenest interest, but said nothing until her father was ready to leave. Then she clutched at his coat sleeve and asked, just loud enough for the embarrassed private to hear:

"Say, daddy, is he a merchant marine?"—The Leatherneck.

Wheat History Was Made.

Among the ceremonies to celebrate Armistice day in France was the inauguration of the first of the commemorative boundary stones which the Touring club of France is going to place at the points on all roads of France where they cross the lines of the battle front of 1918.

These stones are in the form of a four-sided truncated pyramid with a poilu's helmet on top, crowned with laurels. On the side are grenades from which more laurels spring, and the principal side, facing the road, bears the inscription, in French, "Here the invader was driven back, 1918." This first commemorative stone was inaugurated at Chateau Thierry, by a representative of the ministry of war, in the presence of the military attaches of all allied countries.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or through your hair, taking one small soft brush with it and draw this strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.
